

A hand-drawn sketch of a person standing next to a large rectangular object, possibly a machine or a wall. The person is on the right, facing left, with a simple head, torso, and legs. The rectangular object is on the left, with a vertical line separating it from the person. There are several horizontal lines and a wavy line between the person and the object, suggesting movement or interaction. The top of the sketch has some scribbles and a small circle. The bottom of the sketch has some scribbles and a small circle. The entire sketch is enclosed in a rectangular border.
